WILSON TAKES OFFICIAL OATH

Thousands Witness Inaugural Ceremonies.

WEATHER NOT THE BEST

Parade Was One of Greatest Military and Civic Pageants Ever Witnessed in National Capital—Vice President Marshall Also Inducted into Office. Ceremonies Close With Gorgeous Pyrotechnical Display.

Washington, March 4.—Four years of Democratic leadership dawned upon the nation today. For the first time in 20 years the country acclaimed a Democratic chieftain. Democracy, in political darkness for two decades, came into its own again with the inauguration of President Woodrow Wilson and Vice President Thomas H. Marshall.

Twenty years of pent-up enthusiasm found voice in Uncle Sam's quadrennial celebration. In spirit America's 90,000,000 joined in outstretched welcoming hands to the new regime.

The capital's greatest crowd in history, estimated at 250,000, witnessed the coming of the new administration. Before daylight a dense crowd blackened the parks and streets about the capitol and White House. Bells rang for 30,000 soldiers pierced the morning air, shrilly sounding their numbers for the great pageant.

Before 10 o'clock a crowd estimated at 10,000 had formed before the stand to the east of the capitol to await the formal ceremonies. About the president-elect the host sightseers massed upon the sidewalks.

At the White House, President Taft, Mrs. Taft and Miss Helen Taft had their last meal in that historic mansion. Immediately afterward Mrs. Taft and Miss Taft drove to the home of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Boardman, while the president-elect remained to greet his successor.

Governor Marshall shared in the martial and civic excitement, which tingled the nerves of all Washington today.

Dozens of special trains poured belated crowds into the Union station. Electric lines added thousands to the holiday assemblage. Washington "about up shop." Government departments, stores and homes were locked for the day.

Thousands Line Pennsylvania Avenue

Thousands were in their seats forming the giant cavern of reviewing stands lining Pennsylvania avenue before 9 o'clock. Mounted police and cavalry patrolled the mile-long line of march with its barriers of wires behind which crowds swung and swayed in a riot of waving flags, badges and pennants. Passage along the sidewalk was almost impossible at 10 o'clock.

Fifteen governors and their staffs clustered toward the capitol at 9 o'clock to join the legions of the parade, which began formation covering half a dozen blocks on all sides of the capitol at daylight.

The elaborate ceremonies of the day followed a fixed program covering practically five hours. It began in the morning with the drive of the president, president-elect and vice president-elect from the White House to the capitol, where until noon Mr. Taft was occupied with the measures passed in the closing hours of the sixty-second congress.

The inauguration of Vice President Marshall occurred shortly afterward, along with the assembling of the new senate and the wearing in of new senators.

Following this the chief ceremony of the day, the inauguration of President Wilson, occurred at the east front of the capitol.

Arrived at the temporary stand where hundreds of people were already seated and tens of thousands more were bunched in front of the stand, the high dignitaries took the places allotted to them and prepared to solemnize the chief event of the day.

For the first time Chief Justice Edward D. White administered the oath, his predecessor, Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller, having officiated at the last six public inaugurations. In a firm voice the president-elect repeated after the venerable chief justice the oath, bowing to kiss the Bible at its close. The boom of cannon and the cheers of the mighty concourse of people announced the fact that a new president of the United States had been inducted into office and that William Howard Taft was now a private citizen.

The inaugural address was delivered in the easy manner and full voice for which President Wilson is already famous, but the crowd was so enormous that only those nearest the platform could hear. These cheered the telling points, especially the brief reference to the tariff and the striking sentences such as "our work is a work of restoration," "justice and only justice shall always be our motto," and "this is not a day of triumph; it is a day of dedication." Many complimentary references were made to the lofty tone of the address. In its brevity, plainness and high moral plane it is likened to the inaugural addresses of Lincoln.

Then came the return of the president-elect.

OUR NEW PRESIDENT

OATH TAKEN BY WILSON

Washington, March 4.—The following is the oath taken by President Woodrow Wilson as repeated by Chief Justice White and subscribed to by the president with uplifted hand. It is prescribed by the constitution:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

The president-elect repeated the oath word for word, and kissed the open Bible used when he took the oath as governor of New Jersey.

tional guard of New Jersey was in line in this division.

Other states that were represented were Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Maryland, Virginia, Georgia, Maine and North Carolina.

Here also the cadets of the various military schools of the country marched, among them the cadets from the Virginia Military Institute, the Culver Military academy, the Carlisle Indian school, Purdue university, the Citadel cadets and the Georgia Military academy.

Veterans in Evidence.

The third division was made up of the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Union Veteran union, the Spanish War Veterans and various other patriotic organizations. In command was General James E. Stuart of Chicago, a veteran of both the Civil and Spanish wars.

Chief Marshal Robert N. Harper, chairman of the committee on civic organizations, led the fourth grand division, which was composed of various civic organizations, mostly political, from all parts of the country.

One feature of this division was a band of American Indians dressed in the costume of their ancestors. Another was the Princeton students, who escorted the president from his home to this city. They headed the college's band of the parade.

At 6 o'clock this evening President Wilson and family gave a luncheon at the White House to the vice president, Mrs. Marshall and a number of friends. At the conclusion of the luncheon the president and guests repaired to the rear porch of the White House, where they viewed the fireworks and illuminations, which were fired from Monument grounds. The fireworks closed with a display of monster set pieces, flaming portraits of Wilson and Marshall.

The weather was far from ideal, being cloudy throughout, but the temperature was fairly mild and the spectators, considering the kind of weather prevailing at previous inaugurations, had little complaint to make.

GETS UP LATE.

President Starts Day by Startling Plain Clothes Men.

Washington, March 4.—A sleepy plain clothes man on the fourth floor of the Shorham hotel rubbed his eyes vigorously at 8 o'clock today at an apparition that peered through a partly opened door, stepped gingerly out into the hall, half-dressed and grabbed a pair of shoes that had been left outside the door to be blacked.

Misses the glasses and a few moments the watchman had difficulty in recognizing the angular figure as that of the incoming president of the United States. It was Woodrow Wilson.

With his shoes in his hand the president-elect slipped back into his room, got out his shaving paraphernalia, stropped his old-fashioned razor and shaved himself.

Wilson's breakfast consisted of half a grape fruit, oatmeal, two raw eggs and a glass of cool water—noticed, for he never drinks coffee for breakfast. Between the oatmeal and the eggs Wilson slipped a few teaspoonsful of orange juice.

PROBE ORDERED

Senate Asks Washington Officials to Explain Parade Riot.

Washington, March 4.—Senatorial investigation of the failure of Washington police inadequately to protect women taking part in Monday's suffrage parade was ordered today when the upper house passed a resolution introduced by Senator Jones of Washington, calling for an explanation from the city authorities.

The order through which the marchers passed, however, gained for them many new sympathizers and many supporters in places where they had not looked for converts.

Both official and civic Washington is ablaze with indignation at the treatment of the women, which virtually scandalized the national capital. Had it not been for the opportune appearance of the cavalry in the height of the crush it is very possible that a heavy toll of life might have been exacted. As it is there are more than 100 persons in the hospitals who are suffering from broken limbs and other injuries sustained in the crush of the uncontrolled mobs.

Miss Inez Mithelland, herald of the procession, distinguished herself by adding in riding down a mob that disrupted the parade. Another woman member of the petticoat cavalry struck a hoodlum a stinging blow across the face with her riding whip in reply to scurrilous remarks as she was passing.

The mounted police rode hither and yon, but seemed powerless to stem the tide of humanity.

TAFTS TO CARRY AWAY HIGHLY-PRIZED SOUVENIRS.

Washington, March 3.—Both President and Mrs. Taft will carry away from the White House souvenirs which each of them will prize highly. Mr. Taft will take his cabinet chair, which he has purchased for $50. Mrs. Taft will have the register on which every important visitor to the White House during the administration has signed his name. One of the interesting and to most persons unobtainable, signatures on the register is that of Admiral Togo of Japan. There are hundreds of others.

SCHOOL NOTES

Breezy Items of Our School by the Normal Instructor

Through the medium of the Courier the Normal Department desires to thank the High School for the "roasting" they gave us last Friday night in the Literary Society, by so boastfully referring to their "close shave" victory in the Annual Debate a week ago. But: "He who fights and runs away, may live to fight another day." So we serve notice on them that we have an open session next Friday night, 15th, and perhaps the Normal pupils will have something to say in response to the "big sayings" of the High School "Gang". Everybody is invited. No admission fee.

On last Saturday night the Students Club met in the Normal Room and held a debate, the subject being Resolved: "That Washington deserves more credit for defending America than Columbus does for discovering it." The speakers were: Affirmative, H. E. Ferguson and J. N. Kenaird; Negative, John Cantrell and Zenus Franklin. The Judges were: W. H. Gevedon, L. T. Hovermale and J. T. McGarvey. The decision was in favor of the Affirmative.

The teacher of the Normal room was relieved of the care of the house during the debate by the kindly agreement of his old friend, Capt. H. G. Cottle to preside as chairman of the debate. He did his work so efficiently and with such hearty good will that we feel that he has many more such happy(?) evenings before him.

We wish to thank the large audience for their very good behavior and also for the manifestation on their part that they appreciate what we are doing in trying to help the boys and girls in school to become strong in the things that go to make up a life capable of great usefulness.

Our next exercise at our department will be a "Moot Court" at which some unfortunate will be tried for some kind of imaginary offense, and wee unto the culprit if he "getteth not a jury" of his own "fixing."

The Boy Scout movement that we have started here for the benefit of the boys who wish to have extra incentives for doing good, and a stimulus to aid them in breaking away from the use of tobacco, is making good headway. After the debate Saturday night the boys stayed at the school house till we swore in and organized another patrol. We now have two patrols with leaders and a well started movement for good in this work.

In the Eagle Patrol, Chiles Henry is Patrol leader and Clay Phipps is Assistant Patrol leader. In the last Patrol, which has not yet selected their name, the Patrol leader is Garland Arnett and the Assistant Patrol leader is Durward Franklin.

We will organize a Local Council next meeting and provide for the appointment of a Scout Commissioner then the movement will be on a firm footing and we expect to see the boys living up to the standard of the Boy Scout movement, doing only those things that go to make for better citizenship and tell for good in the community. No smoking, chewing, swearing, cheating, lying, nor making sport of any one, especially old people, nor anything else that makes a boy bad will be tolerated, and should any so far forget their obligation as to indulge as things that are mean and unbecoming a real American boy and bring disgrace on the movement, there remains but one thing to do and that is to expel the boy from the movement in disgrace and forever after leave him out.

When school closes we mean to take the whole troop on a two weeks outing during which time we will camp and live closer to nature and learn more of her secrets that aid in making life worth living.

We have another new people this. Miss Josie Salyer, from White Oak, thus making our enrollment 67. We have letters from others who will be with us the 25th inst. We long to reach our conveted number for which we have been working hard since the first, Seventy-five.

We ask to be remembered as the friend of the Mountain boys and girls.

Society Meeting.

The Philamthean Literary Society on last Friday night gave the best programs that has been given this season. The assembly hall the of high school was crowded and perfect order prevailed throughout the whole evening. The program was characterized by so much original work in the form of short story, journalism, extemporaneous talks, and the old folk songs, etc. The school is pleased with the work being done by this society. There is considerable improvement in the individuality of the pupils, which is the beginning of accuracy and deepness, and distinct reason for every decision.

The society is pleased with the storming elements, they love the hardships of achievement. They seem to love fighting men, and fighting things—not fisticuffs, and war play but the spirit manifested in the opposing society.

It is considered that the high school training is the most valuable equipment for any boy who aspires to leadership in any field of activity, commercial or professional. The high school training increases the earning capacity of its graduates eighty-seven fold over those who have only a grammar school education. The high school of Morgan county is growing. There will be fifty-five percent more pupils ready for high school next year than go out this year.

It is hoped that we will have some readjustments with better equipment for the school by the beginning of a new school year. We have a clean town and there is no reason why we should not have just as good a high school organization here as any other town in the State. Evolution is a habit and we had just as well and better get into the process as not.

The school should fight to assume only those things that it can do better than any other institution. There is no reason why we could not have the industrial sciences here as well as elsewhere. There is no reason why the school boy should devote two-thirds of his school life in trying to decide: "What am I to do in the world?" That is to say, I would propose that there be five studies in the high school curriculum, and one of them vocational. A definite purpose in life held continuously before the student will result not only in higher efficiency, but in higher standards of honesty and improved conceptions of culture.

Sad Accident.

Miss Beulah Thompson, the daughter of H. C. Thompson, of Winchester, while helping to move a piano last Friday, was caught under the heavy instrument, which was overturned, and both of her legs broken, one being a compound fracture. Miss Thompson is a half-sister of Mrs. Cecil Henry, of this place, and has frequently visited in West Liberty and has many friends here who will be grieved to hear of her misfortune.

Many sufferers from rheumatism have been surprised and delighted with the prompt relief afforded by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten requires any internal treatment whatever. This liniment is for sale by all dealers.

Citizen's Third Letter.

Mr. Editor: Presuming to again trespass upon your space and good nature I will give you my idea of what we should have in the way of a county attorney. In the first place let me say that the people do not generally realize the importance and responsibilities of this office. It is an office that is fraught with more responsibility and requires a higher order of intelligence and integrity and industry than even that of county judge. In addition to the above qualifications the man elected should bring to the office a high order of legal training and superior business acumen.

Time was that every justice of the peace and outgoing clerk applied for and received license to practice law. This has given us a horde of lawyers(?) who could not tell, to save their lives, the difference between a writ of ad quad damnum and the declaration of independence, nor distinguish between the Code of Practice and Hicks' almanac; yet by our law these men are "qualified" to hold the office of county attorney. True, the statute says that a man must be in active practice for two years before his election, but who is there to say that an occasional case before a justice is not active practice? We need a law to require candidates for county attorney to be re-examined. And the legal profession needs weeding out.

To be an efficient, capable county attorney the man should be a good lawyer (emphasize the "good"), and in addition should possess first-class business ability. His character should be stainless, and he needs the courage of a lion and the firmness of a mountain. He should be a Socrates, a Demosthenes and a Cicero. For in the last analysis he is the advisor and counsellor for the entire county administration, and he should be profound enough to give the right kind of advice.

In brief, he should be first a man then a lawyer.

How do our candidates measure up to these specifications? It is up to the voters to scrutinize the candidates, for if the next county attorney is a misfit the voters alone will be to blame.

A Narrow Escape.

While running off the first side of the paper Monday night Joe Fyfe, one of the Courier's compositors, got his left arm caught between the power shaft and the cylinder of the news press and had a narrow escape from a serious injury. Fortunately the press was just starting and had not attained full speed at the time and was stopped in time to prevent his arm being broken or his shoulder dislocated. As it was his arm was severely bruised and it will be several days before he is able to return to the case.

Editor Elam in Town.

S. S. Elam, editor of the Kentucky Mountaineer, Salyersville, was in the city the first of last week. We wrote the item for publication, but owing to some of the things that frequently happen to the annoyance of a newspaper man the item was lost and the fact not noticed until too late.

Mr. Elam told us that he was a candidate for Superintendent of Schools of Magoffin county.

Moving day in Washington was March 4th, this year.

Your character is your own:
your reputation belongs to Mrs.
Grundy.

Wouldn't a few inches of gravel look good on the streets of West Liberty?

Ex-President Taft left the White House with a smile. Some smiles are sadder than tears.

It is rumored that President Wilson has already gone to work
since he was inaugurated. Good!
There don't seem to be any foolishness about "Woody."

Because two really great men,
Ollie James and Billy Bryan, part their hair in the middle doesn't make it look right for the young bucks—James and Bryan have to.

Some people seem to be of the opinion that Bryan and not Wilson will be the real President.
They'll have another think "a comin'" if the President and Secretary of State should happen to disagree upon some question
of governmental policy.

At last it looks as though we will have a moving picture show.
If plans do not fail its promoters expect to open about the first of April. This will fill a long felt want and furnish an instructive and harmless source of amusement for the young people.

What about that canning factory proposition that was being agitated a few weeks since? The promoters should get a hustle on themselves and get ready to contract with the farmers for the coming season. A little delay will put the matter over to next year.

Someone has said that men are divided into four classes: The man who knows, and knows that he knows; the man who knows and don't know that he knows;
the man who don't know and
don't know that he don't know;
and the man who don't know,
and knows that he don't know.
To which class do you belong?

The inaugural address of President Wilson will go down in history of one of the real state papers of the nation. Not only does it show the erudition of the masterly scholar, but through it breathes the spirit of the patriot and the statesman. We are of the opinion that the people builded better than they knew when they elected Woodrow Wilson as their president.

The phenomenal growth of the Courier subscription list in the past few months proves that the people appreciate the effort that we are making to give them a good paper. This growth is coming without personal soliciting or prize schemes of any kind,
and convinces us that the only way to build up a good substantial subscription list is to make a paper that the people want.

There seems to be a general disposition on the part of the voters of Morgan county to vote for the best men at the coming primary regardless of kinship,
personal friendship or other extraneous influence. We are glad this is so, for when the people realize that the welfare of the entire county is paramount to the interests of a few individuals then and not until then will our best men be elected to office and our county government be raised to a higher plain.

The citizens of the county are awakening to the duty of selecting good men for county of-

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence

Why we use Open Hearth Wire
in Preference to all other kinds

Remember the iron wire your father and your grandfather had around the farm? Good old wire, wasn't it?

The Special Open Hearth Wire, as we make it today from our own (secret) formula, is more like the old time iron wire than that used in any other make of fence.

It takes longer to make this special Open Hearth Wire, but it excels in strength, toughness and long life, and consequently makes the most serviceable, satisfactory fence. The wire is the very foundation of fence durability.

fiere, and we are in receipt of letters almost daily commending the Courier upon the stand it has taken in the matter. We are gratified that the readers are pleased with our efforts but we take no especial credit for doing our duty. A county paper is the watchdog of the people's interests, and we would be recreant to our duties if we did not keep these things prominently in the minds of the people. The Cour-ier's fight for clean politics has just begun. Its columns will team with matter in favor of the best in politics during the coming county campaign, and if you are interested in the fight for good county government hand your neighbor your paper and try to induce him to subscribe.

The Courier has heretofore been of the opinion that Governor McCreary would not enter the race for United States Senator.
It is still of that opinion in a modified form. The Governor attended the Inauguration of President Wilson and the Senatorial race in Kentucky seemed to be a favorite topic of his while in Washington. That the Governor is anxious to again represent Kentucky in the upper house of Congress there is no doubt. It is equally certain that he will enter the Senatorial race
if he can be convinced that there is a chance for him to win.

There are certain influences,
which are not to be disregarded,
constantly at work to get the old war horse into the race. There are certain politicians backing the Governor whose influence cannot be disregarded. The whiskey people with all their allied influences will fight former Governor Beckham to the bitter end.
The whiskey ring would back Congressman Stanley if he had a chance to defeat Beckham. But believing that this is impossible they will line up as a unit for McCreary if he can be persuaded to run. But when the Mil-lionaire's club and the whiskey ring tackle the job of defeating Beckham with McCreary or any other man they have mapped out for themselves the most stupendous undertaking a coterie of politicians ever set themselves to.

Mr. Beckham ought to be given this nomination without opposition as a tribute to his honesty,
an acknowledgement of his ability and as a rebuke to the traitors who deserted their colors
and voted for Bradley four years ago.

But if the would-be-political-bosses want a fight they can get
it. Yea verily, they have it already, and if McCreary should enter the race it will be interesting to watch developments. He will make the fight of his life of course. Ye Gods, what a futile struggle it will be, and what a pitiful spectacle it will be to see the old veteran go down in o'er-whelming defeat.

How many of the farmers of Morgan county realize the good work that the COURIER is doing,
to help them make the business of farming more profitable? Weekly it culls from the best farm literature the things that are best adapted for our section.
Farming is a business, and more and more are the farmers realizing that in no other vocation does system and method yield such results. The best intellects and the best training are required in successful modern farming.

The cropper is being pushed out to make room for the farmer who studies to conserve his soil fertility and to increase his yield at the same time. So much has the fact that farming is a scientific business calling that we are educating our boys in colleges and universities to be farmers.
The Boys' Corn Clubs have been of incalculable value to the education of the farmer. They are demonstrating the possibility of acre unit, and the farmers are awakening to the possibilities of scientific culture of crops. The farm is becoming the one certain and safe vocation in life and this paper is laboring to induce the farmers of Morgan to adopt the business idea of farming. Will you, as farmers, aid us in this effort for better farming by helping to place the COURIER in the home of every farmer in the county?

Same Condition Here

It is almost time for the farmers of the Big Sandy Valley to begin work on the 1913 crop.
They should get out of the rut.
Conditions have changed rapidly,
almost suddenly, in this part of the State. There is now a ready cash market for all products usually grown by "truck farmers." Adjust yourselves to the new conditions and reap a rich harvest.
Dairying also offers our farmers an excellent field for profit. The mining towns will buy all the dairy and truck products we can furnish. Learning how to increase the yield of corn is a good thing, but this is only one of a number of products to which the Big Sandy farmer should be devoting his energy.—Big Sandy

Finds Cure for Epilepsy After Years of Suffering

"My daughter was afflicted with

GUMPTION
Which is Common Sense without Educational Furbelows.
By L. T. HOVERMALE.

A Protest.
Life is "A Comedy or Errors," not a "Midsummer Night's Dream." We do not get "Measure for Measure," and only fools hold the theory that "All's Well That Ends Well." Some time back I wrote an article that stirred the ire of a good old Baptist minister who went after my scalp in a whirlwind of words, and we mixed things rather lively for awhile; but "Orthodox" got tired and flew the coop. Just now I am in the mood to provoke a scrap.

There is something in the sham we live—called life—that puts me in a fighting mood when I meditate upon it and causes me to long to tilt a lance against the whole scheme. The hollowness of the "institutions" we bow in servility to, the transparent insincerity of the whole social and—yes, I'll say it—religious structure that arrogates to itself the right to pattern and guide our "advanced civilization" makes me want to grab the English language and crack it like a bull whip about the ears of the self-constituted mentors of the social and religious world.

In governmental affairs we have "dollar diplomacy," in the social world we have "dollar standards," in business life we have "dollar consciences" and in the church organizations we have "dollar creeds." Everything is measured by the dollar. Standards of right and wrong are fixed by dollars. Candidates for office are judged by their dollars; no poor man or woman is ever a "leader" in church matters; in society the poor girl or boy can not be admitted, no matter how chaste and moral, while searbitic scallwags and moral lepers are gladly welcomed if they have the dollars. The underlying principle is wrong and a perfect structure cannot be reared until the whole system is overthrown and new basic principles laid as the foundation stones.

The most sacred thing to the civilization of to-day is property. As the boy begins to lisp the language of his mother he is taught the importance of accumulating property. In school, in college, the one central idea around which his education circles is property. If he is taught a little of morality and integrity it is only a side line and even that is marred by the dark taint of commercialism. The growing girl has the property idea instilled into her mind to such an extent that she lets noble qualities in man pass by, stultifies love—the God-given attribute that elevates woman beyond the sphere of mortal—and outrages all the tenets of purity by marrying for the sake of property. Property worship has made us a race of commercial degenerates, time-serving sycophants and cringing hypocrites. Small wonder that art and genius find no soil in which to thrive, that we have no poets, painters or composers. The fetid atmosphere of commercialism has destroyed them.

And the government that recognizes the brotherhood of man; the society that recognizes moral worth and intelligence; the religion that practices the teachings of Christ, can never be attained until the god, property (money), is dethroned. The bad and the good can not be combined. Oil and water can not be fused save by the use of lye, and the result is that nauseous mixture, soft soap. Man can not serve God and Mammon. There can be no half-way religion. Half-bred Christians can not rightly guide the destinies of either state, society or church.

And the wonder of the whole thing is that nobody is deceived by the pretense. The whole thing is a bunco game, run under the sanction of morality and business, yet everyone recognizes the colossal fraud. We wink the other eye because we each hope that the role of master buncoist may some day be assigned to us.

Now, spit your venom!

The plant of the Paris Distilling Co., Paris, was destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of $100,000.

CONSPICUOUS BY THEIR ABSENCE

Ohio Makes a Sorry Showing at Washington.

ONLY TWO CLUBS IN PARADE

All State Officers Were Absent and There Was No Military Organization From the Buckeye State—Host of Office-seekers Not Encouraged by Ohio's Lack of Display at the Inauguration.

Washington, March 4.—The only Ohio organizations in the great inaugural parade here today were the Franklin County Democratic club of Columbus and the famous Duckworth club of Cincinnati. The state's showing was a disappointment. There were no military organizations from Ohio and Governor James M. Cox and other state officials were conspicuous by their absence. There are about 500 Ohioans in the city, the most prominent of whom are Mayor Newton Baker of Cleveland and E. H. Moore, member of the Democratic national committee.

State Senator Finnefrock and Representative Fulton, chairmen of the federal relations committees of the two branches of the legislature, are here. They are much sought after by the Democratic members of congress from Ohio, who are vitally interested in the congressional reapportionment bill which the legislature is to pass. State Senator W. M. Shaffer of Paulding, who is an aspirant for the appointment as first assistant postmaster general under the Wilson administration, sends a somewhat formidable array of Democratic job hunters from Ohio.

Ohio will not have a member of the cabinet, nor has the state anyone prominently placed in the organization that surrounds Woodrow Wilson and will, in all probability, dominate the patronage distribution.

Senator Pomerene and the Ohio Democratic congressmen have held out little encouragement to their constituents, who have rushed forward with their claims to recognition, and they have made little or no effort to establish themselves on such terms of intimacy with the new president and his officials that they might be able to secure at least a few first-class appointments. With only the Franklin County Democratic club and the Duckworth club participating in the big demonstration, President Wilson had little to admonish him that Ohio is still on the map, politically speaking.

CABINET IS COMPLETED.

Washington Makes Up Mind as to Final Selections.

Washington, March 4.—Although President Wilson has not announced the personnel of his cabinet, Washington accepts the following slate as constituting the final selection:

William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska, secretary of state.
William G. McAdoo of New York, secretary of treasury.
Lindley M. Garrison of New Jersey, secretary of war.
James McReynolds of Tennessee, attorney general.

WILLIAM C. REDFIELD.
To Be Secretary of Commerce in President Wilson's Cabinet.

Representative Albert Burleson of Tennessee postmaster general.
Josephus Daniel of North Carolina, secretary of the navy.
Franklin K. Lane of California, secretary of the interior.

David F. Houston of Missouri, secretary of agriculture.
William C. Redfield of New York, secretary of commerce.

Representative William B. Wilson of Pennsylvania, secretary of labor.
The selection of Vice Chancellor Garrison of New Jersey to be secretary of war is in line with the idea the president-elect has always had, that the head of the war department should be a man of unusual administrative ability.

The choosing of David Franklin Houston, chamberlain of Washington university, St. Louis, for the portfolio of agriculture, also causes little surprise, as Mr. Wilson's intimate knowledge of agricultural questions has led him to seek a man familiar with the process of advancing scientific farming and allied questions in this country.

For the portfolio of secretary of the interior, it is said Mr. Wilson was influenced to select a westerner of legal training. Franklin K. Lane's experience as interstate commerce commissioner, it is assumed, has fitted him for executive and judicial tasks involved in administering the public lands of the country.

TAFT A PRIVATE CITIZEN AFTER 28 LONG YEARS.

Washington, March 4.—When William H. Taft left today for Augusta, Ga., he became a private citizen for the first time in 28 years. For more than a quarter of a century Mr. Taft has been continuously in the service of the public. He said it feels strange to be plain Mr. Taft again after so many years of "Mr. Solicitor General," "Judge," "Governor," "Mr. Secretary," and finally "Mr. President."

READY TO CATCH PLUMS.

Ohio Democrats Not Disgruntled Over Slight in Cabinet Make-Up.

Washington, March 4.—Although Ohio will have no representation in the Wilson cabinet, the Democratic members of the Buckeye delegation in congress are manifesting no resentment against the president.

Representative Matthew R. Denver of Wilmington was an aspirant for a cabinet position, but he practically abandoned all hope several weeks ago when Mr. Wilson paid no heed to a telegram sent him by the Ohio delegation suggesting a conference with him in the interest of the Sixth district representative.

But the state having been left out of the cabinet Ohio men think they are entitled to a great deal of consideration, when other desirable federal positions are being distributed. Therefore a great deal of activity and wire-pulling is to be expected as soon as President Wilson gets ready to bestow his political favors to the faithful.

National Committeeman Edward Moore of Ohio, who is here to attend a meeting of the national committee on the 6th, doubtless spoke the sentiments of the average Ohio politician and public men when he said that Ohio having gone heavily Democratic after giving nearly one-half of its delegation to the national convention to Wilson, was entitled to a good many plums.

PASSING OF NOTABLES

Many Familiar Faces Will Be Missing in Congress.

Washington, March 4.—The passing of the Sixty-second congress today rang down the curtain, probably for the last time, on many a political career which for years has had the floor of the house or senate as the theater of their activities.

Most conspicuous of these are Senator Shelby Cullom of Illinois, who has landed a $5,000 job as resident commissioner for the Lincoln memorial, and "Uncle Joe" Cannon, also of Illinois. Cullom served 30 years in the senate and Cannon 38 years in the house, longer than any man with in the history of the government.

STRAW VOTE

Who is Your Choice for the Various County Offices?

Believing that the COURIER subscription list contains most of the representative, thoughtful and progressive citizens of Morgan county, and further believing that the weight of their opinion will have much to do in determining who will be the nominees of the primary of next August, the COURIER has decided to conduct a "Straw Election" to obtain the consensus of opinion of our subscribers as to whom should be nominated.

The COURIER has no choice between the aspirants for county nominations. It will be absolutely neutral in these races, treating each with absolute fairness. But in common with all good citizens it hopes that the best men will be selected for all the offices.

RULES OF VOTING.

1. The "Straw Election" will be completed July 5, 1913, at which time all the ballots will be counted, and the result published the following week.
2. Any paid-in-advance yearly subscriber, residing in Morgan county, may cast one ballot for each of the offices to be contended for at the next August primary.
3. Only one vote will be allowed to each subscriber for each yearly subscription, and no ballot will be counted unless signed by the subscriber; but the signature will be detached by us before putting in the ballot box, and in no event will the name of the person voting or for whom he voted be divulged. It is strictly a secret ballot.
4. Only subscribers living in Morgan county may vote but the paper may be sent to any person anywhere.
5. Ballots may be sent in at any time, and as soon as a sufficient number have been received the status of the vote will be published and each week thereafter the number of votes cast for each candidate will be published.

Ballot to be used by yearly subscribers already paid.

RAPE

Rape is grown in the United States primarily as a forage plant, but in Europe it is also quite widely grown, mainly for the production of oil from the seeds. The oil is used for illuminating purposes, for table use and for lubrication. Rape belongs to the cabbage family and has the fleshy character of the leaf of cabbage. The leaves grow very rank and are sweet and tender. The plants grow to a height of one to four feet, depending upon the soil and season.

The principle uses of rape for forage are for pasturing or soiling for sheep, hogs and sometimes cattle. It is of course, impossible to cure rape so that it may be used for hay, neither is it satisfactory for silage purposes. When pastured the stock should be turned on when the plants reach the proper size, usually six to eight weeks. Before it is eaten down very closely the stock should be removed to give the plants an opportunity to send up new leaves. If handled this way a field will furnish pasture for a long period.

When used for soiling purposes, that is, cut and fed, rape should not be cut too closely or it will be killed. If cut from 4 to 5 inches high three cuttings can often be secured.

When sheep or cattle are turned on rape it is well to give them some dry feed previously or they may bloat seriously, especially if the rape is wet. Hogs are not affected, however, and can be turned on at anytime. The greatest danger from bloating occurs when first turning on the pasture, for after stock become accustomed to feeding on it they can be turned directly on rape without much danger. Stock will sometimes refuse to eat rape readily at first, but they soon learn to relish it. If fed to dairy cattle, rape should be fed after the milking period, otherwise the milk is liable to have a cabbage flavor. Rape is very palatable and makes a splendid feed to use in connection with grain for fattening hogs and sheep. It is very cheaply grown and its use in many cases greatly cheapens meat production. Those who have grown it are very enthusiastic in its praise and consider it their most profitable crop. It is not suitable for feeding alone, for although very nutritious it contains a large amount of water and would require the consumption of too great a bulk to satisfy the animal.

Rape requires rich land, in fact it cannot be too rich. The addition of manure and in some cases, nitrogenous fertilizers, is necessary to give the maximum yield. The land for rape should be well prepared and finely pulverized. The seed may be sown very early and as late as August. It takes a rather a hard freeze to injure rape and it will furnish pasture until nearly Christmas if late plantings are made. It is usually large enough to pasture in four to eight weeks.

Rape seeds are very small, about like black mustard seed. Three to five pounds are sufficient to sow an acre. It may be sown broadcast and harrowed in lightly or covered with a brush as is sometimes done with turnip seed. Sowing in drills about 24 inches apart is considered by many to be the best way to plant it. It is claimed that stock will not tramp the plants as badly when sown this way, as they have a tendency to keep between the rows. Rape can be used as a catch crop in many instances to advantage. By disking the land after the removal of wheat or oats and sowing rape, some good fall pasture can often be secured. Rape can be sown in oats about three weeks after the oats are up and not interfere with the growth of the oats to any great extent. After the removal of the oats the rape grows rapidly and furnishes good pasture. The seed are sown broadcast and covered with a harrow. If care is taken the young oats will be injured very little. Rape may also be sown in corn at last cultivation and furnish late fall pasture.

There is but one variety widely grown in this country. This is the Dwarf Essex. Seed can be secured of almost any seedman. It should always be bought by sample and tested for germination before being accepted. The seed costs from seven to ten cents per pound.

A little more about the selection of our officers. "Citizen" has given us a few pointers describing the qualifications of a county judge. He prescribes as a necessary qualification a thorough knowledge of the law, added to an analytical mind and natural reasoning ability, and a good business education. "Citizen's" diagnosis is good. I am glad to see the good people driving to the same point. But there is one item in his diagnosis that is a jaw breaker. A "thorough" knowledge of the law is something that no one in Morgan county is in possession of, so if that is indispensable to the judgeship we are down and out. A "practical" knowledge would be a good substitute for "thorough." We need good financiers for county officials.

To be a farmer does not disqualify a man for any office. Neither does scholarship always qualify a man for office. Some of the best educated men we have are total failures in business. But a practical education, a practical knowledge of the law, good common sense, reasoning faculties and a real good financier would be a downright good officer. But running for office a lifetime does not qualify a man for office. If it does we have some seek no further. Some men have been candidates for 25 years, and the disease has become chronic. I would be at a loss to know how to prescribe for such a case. It seems to me like men of that disposition have concluded that they are the only men in the county that are qualified or worthy to be promoted to office. But this is a free country, and everybody has a right to run for office, also every voter has a right to vote as he pleases.

Yes, Gumption, your suggestions are good in regard to the office of magistrate. If disannulling the office of justice of the peace and appointing commissioners will be for our betterment, let's have it that way for a change.

Vote for good, sober, qualified men what ever you do.

PARTY SUCCESS DOES NOT COUNT

President Moralizes on the Change in Government.

CALLS NATION PRODIGAL

New Executive Says Scales Have Fallen From Our Eyes and We Have Determined to Square National Life Again With High Standards Set at Beginning—Summons Patriotic Men to His Side in Great Struggle.

Washington, March 4.—In his inaugural address President Wilson said:

There has been a change of government. It began two years ago, when the house of representatives became Democratic by a decisive majority. It has now been completed. It means much more than the mere success of a party. The success of a party means little except when the nation is using that party for a large and definite purpose. No one can mistake the purpose for which the nation now seeks to use the Democratic party.

We see that in many things life is very great. It is incomparably great in its material aspects. We have built up, moreover, a great system of government, which has stood through a long age as in many respects a model for those who seek to set liberty upon foundations that will endure against fortuitous change, against storm and accident.

But the evil has come with the good. With riches come inescapable waste. We have squandered a great part of what we might have used and have not stopped to conserve the exceeding bounty of nature. We have been proud of our industrial achievements, but we have not hitherto stopped thoughtfully enough to count the human cost, the cost of lives snuffed out, of energies overtaxed and broken, the fearful physical and spiritual cost to the men and women and children upon whom the dead weight and burden of it all has fallen pitilessly the years through. The great government we loved, has too often been made use of for private and selfish purposes, and those who used it had forgotten the people.

We have come now to the sober second thought. The scales of heedlessness have fallen from our eyes. We have made up our minds to square every process of our national life again with the standards we so proudly set up at the beginning and have always carried at our hearts. Our work is a work of restoration.

We have itemized with some degree of particularity the things that ought to be altered, and here are some of the chief items: A tariff which cuts us off from our proper part in the commerce of the world, violates the just principles of taxation and makes the government a facile instrument in the hands of private interests; a banking and currency system based upon the necessity of the government to sell its bonds fifty years ago and perfectly adapted to concentrating cash and restricting credits; an industrial system which, take it on all sides, financial as well as administrative, holds capital in leading strings, restricts the liberties and limits the opportunities of labor and exploits without renewing or conserving the natural resources of the country; a body of agricultural activities never yet given the efficiency of great business undertakings or served as it should be through the instrumentality of science taken directly to the farm or afforded the facilities of credit best suited to its practical needs; water-courses undeveloped, waste places unreclaimed, forests untended, fast disappearing without plan or prospect of renewal, unregarded waste heaps at every mile. We have studied as perhaps no other nation has the most effective means of production, but we have not studied cost or economy as we should either as organizers of industry or as individuals.

Nor have we studied and perfected the means by which government may be put at the service of humanity in safeguarding the health of the nation. There can be no equality of opportunity, the first essential of justice in the body politic, if men and women and children be not shielded in their lives, their very vitality, from the consequences of great industrial and social processes which they can not alter, control or singly cope with. Society must see to it that it does not itself crush or weaken or damage its own constituent parts.

This is not a day of triumph; it is a day of dedication. Men's hearts wait upon us; men's lives hang in the balance; men's hopes call upon us to say what we will do. Who shall live up to the great trust? Who dares fall to it? I summon all honest men, all patriotic, all forward looking men, to my side. God helping me, I will not fail them if they will but counsel and sustain me.

Big Game Preserve

A big game preserve in the Kentucky mountains will be established this year. The game and fish commission has bought twenty white-tail deer, the breed native to Kentucky hills, and will set them free in Jackson, Leslie and Wayne counties as soon as the roads are in condition to permit travel by wagon back from the railroad.

Executive agent J. Q. Ward said it is probable that the deer will be branded, as there is no law now to protect deer in Kentucky excepting one preventing the killing of "marked deer." He thought the brand will protect the new herd until legislation can be secured. It will be necessary to prohibit deer hunting until the mountains are well stocked. There are 15 does and five bucks in the herd, which are to be shipped from the Lake Superior preserves.—Ex.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
